

The Monthly Dividend Paycheck Calendar: April 2015 Update

A Special Research Report from The Dividend Hunter

PLEASE READ THIS SECTION CAREFULLY BEFORE STARTING TO BUILD YOUR WEALTH WITH THE STOCKS IN THIS CALENDAR

Fellow Investor,

Welcome to the most recent update to the Monthly Dividend Paycheck Calendar from The Dividend Hunter. It's truly my desire that you're able to use this calendar and the stock research from The Dividend Hunter portfolio to start your own monthly dividend income stream.

In the following pages you'll find critical information on the ex-dividend and payment dates for stocks in the portfolio. The ex-dividend date represents the date when you must own the stock you wish to receive dividends from. Of course you can purchase it sooner, but this is the last date you must own it and still be entitled to the upcoming dividend payment. So you have to buy it the day before the ex-dividend date. For example if the ex-dividend date is the 13th, then you must buy the stock no later than the 12th. The payment date is exactly what it is; it's the day that the company will pay dividends to all shareholders as of the ex-dividend date. Any new shareholders after that date will have to wait until the next payment date.

These dates are subject to change. Many companies do not announce their ex-dividend date and payment date until they are close to them. This is for good reason; they need to know the health of their business and their cash flow in order to make sure they can afford to pay their dividend. Fortunately, the stocks we've selected for The Dividend Hunter portfolio and used in this calendar have a good track record of not missing and not cutting dividends, so the likelihood they'll not pay is low, though of course it's not impossible.

We've made every attempt to accurately reflect the ex-dividend and payment dates for each of our portfolio holdings. This is based on historical patterns of payments as well as in some cases stated policy by the companies making the payments. However, the further forward you go on the calendar (for example it's now April and you're looking at a payment for September) the greater the possibility that the dates may need to be adjusted as we draw closer to them. So my suggestion is that if you're truly interested in a stock, don't wait until the last minute to buy it and always look for periodic updates from me.

This is an exciting time to be an income investor and the stocks in The Dividend Hunter portfolio coupled with this easy to use calendar will get you start on the path to building wealth.

Each month we'll update the calendar to include new portfolio additions, make adjustments to ex-dividend and payment dates as warranted, and remove any portfolio holdings that no longer fit our criteria for wealth creation. This is just another benefit with your subscription to The Dividend Hunter.

And of course if you ever have questions about using the calendar just send me an email at tim.plaehn@investorsalley.com
